Excellence & Innovation

This project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 952601

2021 Professorship Call at IARFR PAS, Poland

Project Summary

The main objective of the project is to upgrade, extend and unlock the research potential of Institute of Animal Reproduction and Food Research to achieve excellence on sustainable basis and fully participate in European Research Area. Under Chair's guidance Institute hopes to advance in research management and improve the capacity to compete successfully for international funds.

ERA Chair position should be considered executive, as she/he will co-create new strategy for IARFR PAS further development into Centre of Excellence in nutrigenomics, fully integrated in the IAR&FR. ERA Chair holder and affiliates are expected to exert an essential impact on the research and innovation landscape at IAR&FR and its surrounding environment.

Project's impacts feed into regional and national smart specializations, as well as Horizon2020 Societal Challenges, HorizonEuropePillar2 Global Challenges and European Industrial Competitiveness and UN Sustainable Development Goals.

About the Institute

The overall mission of the IARFR PAS is to conduct the world class research dedicated to understand and improve the natural environment's impact on human's quality of life and animal wellbeing. The Institute is committed to provide exceptional and innovative research aligned with regional and national needs.

IARFR PAS is regarded as family friendly employer with positive approach towards the culture of inclusiveness, respect, communication and understanding. The Institute is ready to fully support the whole process of relocation and acclimation (including housing, school searching, legal obligations, transportation of scientific achievements).

IARFR PAS is located in Olsztyn – the capital and the largest city of the Warmia and Mazury province in the North-Eastern Poland, with population of approx. 175 000 people. Olsztyn's greatest allure lies in its unique location as it is surrounded by forests and lakes. Not surprisingly Olsztyn is often regarded as "garden city". Olsztyn is a recognized academic centre of the region.

City is located 90 min drive from Gdańsk and 150 min drive from Warsaw. Olsztyn has its own international commercial airport located in Szymany – 50 min.
